Lisa Sullivan has over 25 years' experience in accountancy working for print specialists CBF Limited as a purchase and sales ledger from 1998 until present. She joins Faye Hammond Consultancy in addition to this current role with CBF, to help us oversee our books as the companies grows.

As a primary point of contact for all customers and suppliers, Lisa's role with CBF has been to ensure customers are confident that all works undertaken are produced and supplied within their requested timeframe. It is this experience, along with monitoring and controlling contracts and filing sales and purchase invoices, that makes her such a valuable addition to our team.

A great communicator, she prides herself on getting the job done to the highest standards, and not only has she proven herself to be a hardworking, loyal and meticulous employee over her career, but she has also implemented a credit control system that has eradicated 99 per cent of bad debts while also being customer friendly.

Lisa joined FHC in 2021 and has been a vital member of staff managing the accounts for the business and also running any direct payment accounts for care packages as agreed with local health authorities. She has been able to set up swifter payment processes and timely funding top up requests to ensure FHC (who hold separate client account funds) can settle agency invoices the same day to both provide continues secure care delivery and also maintain good relationships between ICB's and the agencies. Lisa is the main point of contact for all business accounts matters.

When she is not balancing the books, Lisa is a commissioned artist who has sent work as far as Australia. She also works as an art teacher, teaching adults and children to love and enjoy all the creativity that art can bring.
